BREWERY PROFILE

Saint Somewhere Brewing Co.

Type: Domestic Craft Brewery

Available in keg? – No.

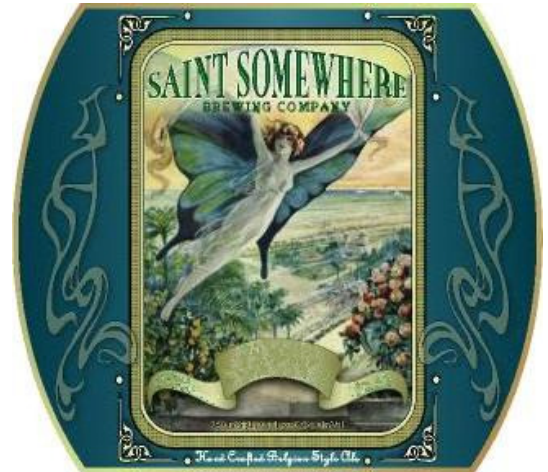

Available in bottle or can? – Yes.

Who's who: Presidents – Bob and Anne Sylvester.

Notes: A small scale craft brewery whose beers were first launched in September 2007 by a dedicated, native-Floridian homebrewer. The brewhouse consists of a jumbled but efficient collection of ex-winery and dairy equipment tweaked to primarily brew Belgian style ales. Saint Somewhere has, in a matter of months, established a reputation for quality and craftsmanship. The name is taken from a line in a Jimmy Buffett song (who, incidentally and ironically, has his own lager brand mass-produced by Anheuser-Busch).

Distance to the brewery from New York City: 1158 miles.

Ratings

Each beer has been given a rating from one to five which should be interpreted as follows.

* Bland, one-dimensional, or tasting of cheap adjuncts – unenjoyable. Not recommended.

 Nothing special but may be worth trying if nothing better is available.

 Good, recommended.

* Great, highly recommended.

 Exceptionally good, very highly recommended.

Ratings are based on personal taste although, in certain instances, outside evaluations have been used when a particular beer has not been sampled by the author/webmaster.

{S} after the beer name denotes seasonal availability.

Saison Athene (7.5%)  < - SAISON - > – A golden farmhouse ale with black pepper, chamomile, and rosemary on the palate. There's a hint of sweetness and spice plus a little funkiness.

Lectio Divina (8.0%)  < - BELGIAN GOLDEN STRONG ALE - > – Deep amber abbey-style ale with a complexity which includes sweet and tart fruit notes, caramelized sugar, and a moderate yeastiness.
